• Improvements that are tailored to the varying roadway, transit, bicycle/pedestrian travel and shoreline protection needs along the corridor

• Recognize that locations along the corridor have varying needs and different contexts within which to satisfy those needs

• These treatments can be combined to form many different alternatives